FARMERS

Less Than One-third of Needed Supply

URGED TO TEST SEED CARN

Lake County will need in the neigh ports from over 300 formers in the county indicate that we have less than ene-third of the needed supply of seed. Seme of the farmers that have reported are not abselutely sure at, the present time that their seed will grow, Tests made by the Farm Improvement Asseriation and those made by individual farmers show that our local seed cannot be relied upon unless careful germination tests are made. The tests made se far have varied frem 95% to 40% germination. Ordinarily we would not think of planting corn whose germination was less than 90%. There will not be much seed corn planted of James M. and Catherine Westlake, with gemination higher than 95%. Indications are that some corn will have to be used for seed that tests less of Mrs. Chas. Phillips Feb. 13, at the

Every Farmer in Lake County who mediately to find out whether such corn can be used for seed purposes. Some farmers have a supply of eld feeding corn en hand. With feeding corn ut $1.50 n bushel and with seed corn at $8.00 to $10.00 per bushel it will pay any farmer to quit feeding his ear corn which ha has on hand until he finds out whether such corn can be used for send purpeses or net. You may think you know good seed cern by sight but every seed cern mar this year should back up his judgment with germination tests. It is the only safe methed to follow. Home grown seed is always best. Get such seed if you can. It is cheap at any price if the germination is good.

Some of our dealers have a small supply of seed corn on hand and they will be glad to give you infermation concerning its vitality, where such asad was grown and its adsptation for Lake county conditions.

Seed corn frem central Illinois, Iowa, Misseuri, or Indiana is net adapted to Lake county cenditions. Some of our best spedmen in Nerthern Illinois, Wisconsid, etc., have adopted the policy of sending seed corn further south fer some lecel farmer to grow in order to insura their supply for the following yeur. Such early corn taken south for for one season and then brought back nerth will give good results.

After the meal I yielded to my own need of rest, certain I should be on deck all night, and returned to the cabin. I left my stateroom door open, but in ten minutes I was sound asleep.

What awakened me I do not know. I had a confused sense of some heavy body falling, but no other sound. Yet lis impression was so strong, so insistent, that I sat up in the berth, and stared out through the open door into the cabin beyond. I neither saw, nor heard anything, yet did not withdraw my eyes when I got to my feet; then I knew that the dark shapeless object, half under the table, was the motionless body of a man. My throat seemed to contract, and choke me, but I forced and nervous possibly, but he spoke was deserted, not another stateroom door open. The table had been cleared of dishes, a decenter of brandy standing slone on the swinging shelf. Here was a man crazed, murderously insane, who had safely tasted blood, whose lasanity had been caused by fear, and brooding over a great wrong. In his disordered brain u mad, desperate desire for revenge had overshadowed all else. To obtain this no deed was impossible, no crime too hideous. And this creature was hidden somewhere between decks, and, unless discovered and mado coptive, held in his hands the fate of every soul on board. The thought of what ho might do during the black darkness of the night terrorized me. At any cost we must have him within our control; we dare not even wait to hope that the man might reveal himself-we must go after him, crawling in the dark, I explained this quickly to the two men, hiding none of my own fear, but making them comprehend the desperate need of thorough and ceaseless search. The look on their faces evidenced that my words had gone home.

The place had never been a sea-parlor, but now, deserted by the crew, it presented as dismal a scene, in the dim light of the lantern, as ever I put my foot into. Tho air was foul with bilge-water, while rotting garments hung to the beams above, or were strewn along the deck. The shadows were grotesque and hideous, and much of the space was cluttered up by discarded sea boots, battered chests and miscellaneous riffraff which tho men had left behlad in their flight. I stopped at the foot of the steps, but Leayord and Red advanced to the tler of bunks, the former lifting the lentern, while the latter took survey within each. We found no trace of Bancom, but at that I was glad enough to be back again on the open deck, breathing in the fresh night air. It was like a toulc.

Signing Up for Public Service

Enrollment of "U, S, Shipyards Volunteers" started in a rush in Chicago and throughout the state on the first two days of the special week set aside for that purpose, In Chicago alone nearly 8,000 signed up, and from all parts of the state came reports of results comparatively as satisfactory. Hence the outlook for getting Illinois' full quota of 23,662 men seems bright.

The purpose of the enrollment is to get an army of 250,000 men enlisted, so to speak; they do not enlist in reality, who may be called when the government needs them in the shipyards. And regarding the need, Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, telegraphs the following to Charles A. Munroe, Director of the Public Service Reserve, who has the enrollment in charge!

"Permit me to extend to you and through you to all your enrollment agents the thanks of the United States Shipping Board for your efforts in connecting the work of enrolling shipyard volunteers of the United States Service Reserve which has been put in your charge. No. more important patriotic service can be performed than that with which you are entrusted. Upon the thoroughness of your canvas of your communities for men skilled in trades useful in shipbuilding and willing to enroll as shipyard volunteers will depend in large measure the success of the whole military and industrial program of your county for the coming year. Other industry must wait upon the production of ships. I trust you will not relax in your efforts until the full quoto for your state is reached."

Under the direction of Mr_Munroe, enrolling agents have been named in each county of the state, in some counties half a dozen, the whole number being 230. Everywhere they have been busily engaged in getting men to give the government their names and their qualifications for shipbuilding work, and to sign pledges to be ready for government service when they are wanted.

It is made particularly plain by the government that no men should go to shipyards now looking for immediate jobs. The men are asked to enroll only, not to give up present employment until they are called. And the government is asking all those who are skilled in the use of tools, almost any kind of tools from a paint brush to a pneumatic riveter, to join the reserve and be ready, because the quarter of a million is to be needed soon ruous

Troops Prove Their Discipline

Discipline, the chief objective of the months of hard work the American troops have put in at the training camps, seems to have been achieved.

When the transport Tuscania was torpedoed with nearly 2,400 troops on board, the Germans had two objects, to destroy the men aboard, and to strike terror to the hearts of the men here who are later to brave the submarine menace. The story of a panic aboard the ship, cabaled home, would have served the German purpose well, and would have cost very many more lives. But instead of such a story, this is what, was cabled by the staff correspondent of the New York World:

"Complete discipline reigned on board when the torpedo hit the Tuscania. The soldiers, it is said, lined up on the deck and sang 'My country, 'Tis of Thee,' and 'The Star Spangled Banner.' Opposite to them the British crew lustily raised the tune of God Save the King'."

By MILDRED WHITE.

Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.) Glen Truesdale, alighting at the vilage station, looked quickly about for the usual hotel conveyance. It was a mile and a half to the center of the town, and his time there was limited. No customery bus presented itself to his vision; impatiently lie strode up the roadway, and there, just at the bend, walted a large automobile. In the driver's sent sat the most benutiful girl be had ever seen.

Truesdale was debating with himself whether he night dore to ask of her the information the brusque stution agent denied, when the girl leaned forward.

"Auto for Lyndenville?" she naked. "You mean-" he blurted out, "that ou would drive me there?"

The girl pushed open the car door. 'That is my business," she onswered. With alacrity he placed his valise in the machine and seated himself by the driver. Her gauntleted hands were upon the wheel. "Where?" she asked briefly.

Truesdale answered with the housename of his destination. There was no invitation for further remark in her husinesalike manner, Once she turned to smile at him.

Great morning, Isa't It?" she said. To Glen Truesdale it was a "great mora-

"There's the 'grent' business block aliend," laughed the girl, "and your office the center one. Twenty-five cents, please."

"So soon," said Truesdale, His tono bespoke disappointment.

The driver flung open the door, and even as he descended she prepared to whirl her car about in departure. Then Inspiration came to him. There was so little of interesting variety in his tread-mill life, this glorious morning spin had seemed like an hour from his boyhood. The car and the scrvices raculously for hire. "This afternoon," said Truesdale, "I would like to be carried over to tho

a weekly visit here for some time, no told the girl; "may I ask you to drive me each Wednesday?"

For a moment she regarded itim beneath her soft cap brin.

"Certainly," she agreed impersonally. It was altogether strange and lnexplicable how that winsome, girlish face haunted him through the days which followed. Mockingly it smiled from perplexing papers; resentfully it seemed to withdraw at his own returning smile. Unaccountable anger filled him—that "she" should be carrying people about, here and there, at so much a mile, and why?. And what was it all to him, he who did not even know her name?

"My name is Glen Truesdale," he abruptly informed her upon one of their later rides. "I would like to know vouts."

"Margaret Carstairs," she replied in mimicry.

This last ride down through the early starlight, was one of enchantnent. Truesdale dared hardly glanco nt the glowing face near his own, lest he must tell the girl how lovely she was, and forever break the charm. Instinctively, he knew that one step out of his stipulated role of "customer only," would be the end. But how to see her under other and more promising conditions that was the problem Then, because he must know more her, he sought the station agent. "Whom did you say sho was?" he asked easually, "the young woman who drives the auto-bus?"

"Don't know much about 'em," the agent replied. "Came here a couplo of months ago and rented the old Gago place. Carstairs, the name. Her liveband started to run the auto trips, when he was called to war. Then, she took it up. Pretty plucky."

Truesdale's hend was swimming. Ho stepped out into the night. Her husband and he had gone to war. Yes, it was pretty plucky. And Glen Truesdale enmo back to the country town

The girl's eyes grew wistful as Wednesday after Wednesday passed. But the haunting eyes looking back from Glen's paper were mocking ones. When husiness forced him again to the country his face whitened with fear that she would be there, but when he saw her his heart quickened in joyous response. Speechlessly he stood guzing nio her repronchful face.

"You have been away-so long," she sald. Disappointment was in her tone. Business method seemed to have ranished. "When I heard of your hushand being away at wer-" Truesdale

Executive Tells Ship Strikers That They Are Aiding the Enemy.

HAD NO RIGHT TO STRIKE

Hutcheson Told by President That Workers Should Not Have Quit Until Every Mothod of Adjustment Had Been tricd.

New York, Feb. 19 .- The shippard strike, which threatened to tio up the cutire shipbuilding program of the United States on the Atlantic const, has been ended, at least temporarily, by the personal appenl of President Wilson, President William Hutcheson had the officials of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners telephoned to fall local ufficials, asking them to have the men under their jurisdiction back at work at once, and wired union offcials in Bhitimore and other places that he wanted the wish of the president of the United States compiled with immediately.

Washington, Feb. 19.—President Wilson, has telegraphed Willim L. Hutcheson, general president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Join ers, that he can see nothing to be gained by conferring with him personally about the stelke of shippard carpenters until he has accepted and neted upon the principle that in the present circumstances of the nation no body of men has the right to strike until every method of adjustment has been tried to the limit.

The president's message was sent in reply to one received from lintcheson saying he had been unable to reach an understanding with officials of the shipping board, but felt that it given an opportunity to lay the matter before the president a solution could be arrived at quickly. It was made public on Sunday, as follows: William L. Hutcheson.

"General President United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. "New York."

AND NOW THEY ARE COOKING TOBACCO TO MAKE IT BETTER

For a good many years The American Tobacco Company have been conducting a series of experiments having as their object the improvement of smoking tobaccos.

And it is interesting to know that one of the greatest of their discoverles was one of the simplest, and that was, that cooking or toasting tobacco improved it in every way, just as cooking most foods improves them. They took a real Burley tobacco, grown in this country; toasted it as you would toast brend; moistened it to replace the natural moisture driven off by toasting; made it into cigarettes, called them-"LUCKY STRIKE, the toasted cigarette," and offered them to the public.

The result has been the greatest demand ever created for any tobacco product in a similar length of time.

. The change produced by toasting is not. anly most wholesome, but the flavor is greatly improved, just as cooking improves meat, for example.-Adv.

Women of Interior Department Doing Big War Work

W ASHINGTON.—Under the daily, personal direction of Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, wife of the secretary of the interior, nearly half a thousand women of the interior department are using every spare minute sewing, knitting and pucking things which will comfort and elicer sick and wounded American soldlers in France. When the office day ends they hur-ry from all parts of official Washington to the rooms in Secretary Lane's big building, where the Interior Department War Work association is in continuous session, to turn in finished work and get material for more sweaters, sheets, towels, pajamas, stockings, slippers and the other articles which are packed in big shipping cases, one of which has gone to Neullly, France, every ten days. The Interior Depart ment War Work association is an auxillary of the American Red Cross. It had its beginning almost immediately after war with Germany was declared, when the Home club, which is a social organization of the department with nearly a thousand members, began planning for relief work. For a time the association met in the Home Ciub building on Jackson place, and in the early days of the movement its output was distributed through the American-French clearing house.

Here Mrs. Lane, surrounded by the wives and daughters of her husband's assistants, cominissioners, directors and chiefs, manages an organized patriotism which ramifies into the far North where the Alaskan engineering commission is pushing a railroad to reach precious coal deposits; into isolated reservations where the people of the Indian service are; into the arid pinias where the men of the geological survey are working; lato the depths of coal shafts where the bureau of mines' experts gather; into prairie towas where the men of the general land office work; into the green elad irrigation areas where the engineers of the reclamation service are constructing canals and ditches; into the mountains and canyons and great forests of the big trees where the rangers and fire fighters of the national park service climb the tralls, and to the desks and offices of the bureau of education, the pension hurcau, the patent office and all the other branches and divisions of the interior department.

For the men of the service are back of the women with their money. Thousands of dollars have been pledged and pald and the enthusiasm in the good cause has been so practical in its nature that though the work is only just heyond the stake of taltint organization.

BENEFITS OF CONCRETE ROAD

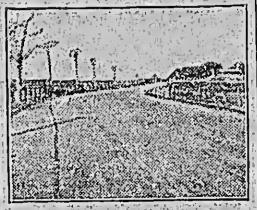

Make Travel Quick, Safe and Easy, Clean and Comfortable_Saves More Than It Costa.

Concreto ronds are country boulevards They benefit a community in making travel quick, safe, easy, clean and comfortable. They extend neighborhood limits, brieg more people late personal touch with each other, increase social opportuaitles and therehy remove the monolony of Isolation; bring greater content to the youth on tho farm, make city and country near, neighbors and increase school attendance, thus cultivating a desire for a brouder knowledge and higher standards of living.

Concrete roads make dally rural mall delivery a fact, every home unit in the community is put on the news wire. with the political, financial, industrial and trading centers of the earth. Tho best thought of the world in every line. of human effort and human achievement is transmitted everaight to the brenkfast lable of the community served by a network of concrete ronds, A concrete roud saves more than It ensts. It is open to maximum truffle nil the year round. It brings greater

He Originated Method of Covering Surface of Ground With Impermeable Crust or Covering.

Just 200 years ago was born "tho first of the pioneers who took up the work of scientific roud hullding." ering the surface of the ground with an impermeable crust, cover or coatlng, so that water would not penetrate to the soil beneath. A roud thus "maendanilzed" was found to yield less ensity to weights pressing upon it, and could not be broken up by the action of frost. But while the inventor's same sprend his resources dwindled, and though made surveyor general of roads, ho had to depend for his recompense. on a purliamentary grant. Liesedam was a road repairer rather than a road bullder, but his system went all over the world.

SPRING CARE OF HIGHWAYS

Go Over Road With Grader to Clean Out Ditches-Fill All Ruta With New Material.

Every apring before the ground becomes too hard the road should be thoroughly gone over with a grader to Pupil of Chas. K. Lindsay clean out the ditches, so that the water may have a free outlet. The ruts and holes should be filled, elevations in the roud and shoulders on the side of the chains north of the southeast corner of road planed off, the grade improved, Earth roads have a pronounced tend ency to rut. When ruts begin to uppear on the surface great care should be used in selecting new material, with which they should be filled immediately. One fundamental principle that is of special importance in the repair of any rond is that whatever material is used in the construction of the sarface, the same material-and no other -should be used in its repair. Hog Needs Protection.

The hog is mither scantlly provided with halr aud the warmer the country the less hair. Therefore, he needs protection during the slorms of winter. Unless you provide it, you invite colds, influenza, lung troubles, rheumatism.

Sowing Slow Sceds. In sowing seeds that start slowly, as paranipa, celery, etc., it is well to sow with them a rew strong, quickgerminating seeds to brenk the crust and mark the rows so that cultivation. may begin early.
